In this exclusive excerpt, Jessica shares the story of her first Thanksgiving disaster, which resulted in a turkey that was so dry, it could have been used as a doorstep.

“I was 22 years old and newly married when I decided to host Thanksgiving dinner for the first time. I had never cooked a turkey before, but I was determined to impress my husband and our guests.*”

I went to the grocery store and bought the biggest turkey I could find. I brought it home and proudly placed it in the oven.

Four hours later, I took the turkey out of the oven and set it on the counter to rest. When I went to carve it, I realized that it was as dry as a bone.

I was mortified. I had spent hours cooking this turkey, and it was a complete disaster.

My husband and guests tried to be polite, but I could tell they were disappointed. I felt like a complete failure.

But then, something amazing happened. My husband looked at me and said, "Don't worry, honey. We can still have a great Thanksgiving. We'll just Free Download pizza."

I laughed, and the tension was broken. We all sat down to eat pizza and watch football, and we had a wonderful time.

That Thanksgiving taught me a valuable lesson: it's okay to make mistakes in the kitchen. The important thing is to laugh about it and enjoy the time spent with loved ones."

Recipes for Disaster is a must-read for anyone who loves to cook, laugh, and learn from their mistakes. Jessica Seinfeld's stories are sure to entertain and inspire you, and her recipes will help you avoid some of the most common kitchen disasters.
